Supreme Court Rules
Government Can Loan,
Make Electric Grants

Ickes Says Decision Would Affect 52 Power Projects Costing More Than 84 Millions—Black Concur.

CASE GOES BACK

California Case on Value of Public Utilities Returns to Three-Judge District Court.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The Supreme court ruled today the government could make loans and grants for publicly-owned electric plants.

Secretary Ickes, the public works administrator, said the decision would affect construction of 52 power projects costing $84,026,288 for which his agency had allotted $30,191,944 as loans to be repaid and $21,674,408 as federal grants.

Constitutionality of the government's activity was challenged by the Alabama Power Company and the Duke Power Company. They sought to enjoin federal financing of projects in four Alabama municipalities and at Buzzard Roost in Greenwood County, S. C.

Justice Sutherland delivered the opinion of the court. He dealt first with the cases brought by the Alabama Power Company. The justice announced no dissent and said that Justice Black concurred in the result.

The court affirmed a decree by the circuit court holding that private power companies had no right to challenge the action of the government in making proposed loans and grants.

In his opinion, Sutherland said that the competition with the municipalities was "entirely lawful." "While the loan," he continued, "might frustrate complainant's hopes of a profitable investment it would not violate any legal right."

Saying that the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia had ruled that no "legal or equitable right of the power company (Alabama) had been invaded and the company, therefore, was without standing to challenge the validity of the administrator's act," Judge Sutherland added:

"With that view we agree."

Each Has Authority

After reviewing proceedings in lower courts Sutherland said:

"It, therefore, appears that each of the municipalities in question has authority to construct and operate its proposed plant and distribution system in competition with petitioner (Alabama Power Company) and to borrow money, issue bonds and receive grants for that purpose; that if determined to do so of its own free will, without solicitation or coercion; that there was no conspiracy between any of the respondents and other person, or any effort or action motivated by a desire to cause injury or financial loss to petitioner, or any purpose to regulate rates or foster municipal ownership of utilities."

Justice Sutherland also delivered the opinion in the Duke Power Company case, saying the same questions were presented as in the Alabama litigation.

He announced no dissent to this opinion.

For another case the Supreme court returned today to a three-judge federal district court in California litigation that the Roosevelt administration used as a basis for advocating a change in the method of valuing public utilities for rate-making purposes.

This postponed indefinitely a final ruling on the administration's contentions that "prudent investment" should be used as the basis for valuation and that reproduction cost need not be considered.

The litigation involved a 1937 order by the California railroad commission directing the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to reduce its gas rates by $1,744,681 a year.

Enforcement of the order was enjoined by the three-judge federal court on the ground that "proper evidence of the cost of reproduction" had not been considered.

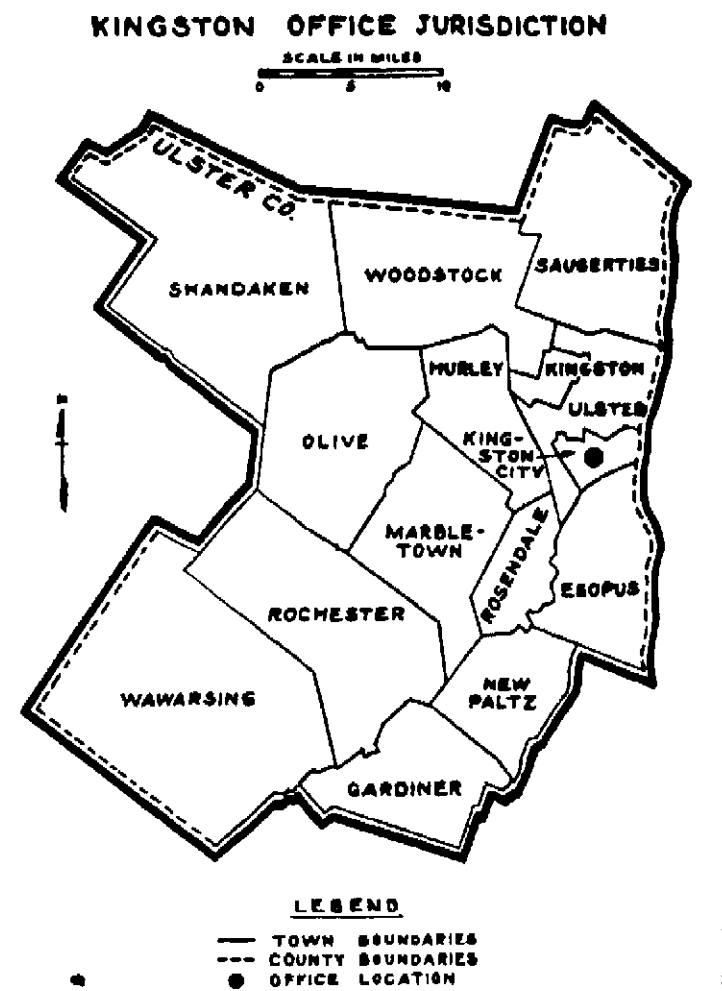

Chief Justice Hughes, delivering the majority opinion, said:

"The main issue in this litigation is whether the rates as fixed by the commission's order are confiscatory."

"The district court did not determine that issue. The district court should determine it. The decree is reversed and the cause is remanded for further proceedings in conformity with this opinion."

8-Inches of Snow
Kept Street Force
Busy at Work Here

The snowstorm of Friday and Saturday deposited eight inches of snow on the city's streets, according to the official records in the city engineer's office at the city hall, and called out the city's snow removal equipment for the first time this winter. The snow plows were kept busy all day Saturday and Saturday night opening the streets to traffic.

Work was continued on Sunday with a force of 80 men and 25 trucks removing snow from the business sections and main thoroughfares. Both snow loaders were also placed at work.

Work of carting away the snow was continued today.

As a result of the work carried on by the street department all of the streets were open to traffic on New Year's Day.

Superintendent David P. Conway, who had been up day and night since the storm broke over the city was forced to quit work on Sunday as he had such a heavy cold that he was unable to speak above a whisper. His duties were taken over by City Engineer James Norton. Today, however, Superintendent Conway was again on the job directing the removal of the snow.

Disch Explosion
Cause Undetermined

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said this morning that he had not completed his investigation of the blast that demolished the Frank Disch tavern on Broadway at Cornell street early last Friday morning, but was of the opinion that it was a gas explosion. As to the source of the supply and the cause of the ignition he had not yet decided.

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation is also conducting an investigation as to the cause of the explosion. At the local office here it was stated that the investigation had not been completed and until it was finished it would be impossible to advance the cause of the blast.

The fire department stated that two explosion experts from the Consolidated Gas Company of New York city were expected in Kingston this afternoon to investigate the explosion. The experts had been called here by the Central Hudson Corporation.

Anti-Trust Statute Is Called Inadequate by Cummings, Jackson

Attorney General Proposes Congressional Investigation of Statute Enacted in 1890 to Tighten Loop Holes.

COURT SUPERVISION
Also Suggests New Plans for Court Reorganization Defeat
Last Term.

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP).—Attorney General Cummings recommended today a congressional investigation of what he called the inadequacy of the anti-trust laws.

He made the proposal in his annual report which also revived two features of President Roosevelt's defeated court reorganization bill.

"Obviously," the report said, "the statute (Anti-Trust Law) in its present form is not adequate for the purpose of dealing with the many ramifications of the problem. A thorough and comprehensive study is necessary."

Discussing means of eliminating delays in administration of justice, Cummings said it was "highly desirable" that congress provide for an administrative officer to supervise federal courts. He also suggested "serious thought" be given to increased "flexibility" for the courts.

These two proposals recalled the provisions in the Roosevelt court bill for a "proctor" to supervise the courts and for complete freedom for the chief justice to assign judges to any district to hear special cases.

While the court fight which split the Democratic majority at the last regular congressional session centered on the proposal to enlarge the supreme court, these provisions also were attacked.

Flying Squadron
Opponents contended they would "centralize" the courts and allow creation of a "flying squadron" of judges who could be assigned to hear cases in which the government was interested.

Cummings made no specific recommendations respecting the anti-trust law. He noted, however, there had been no basic change in the Sherman anti-trust act since its enactment in 1890 and added:

"In the meantime, however, it has undergone many modifications by judicial interpretation. During the 47 years that the statute has been in effect our economic and social structure has undergone a vast change."

"Though aimed at the suppression of monopolies and restraints of trade, efforts to enforce the law have been only partially successful."

Cummings did not go into details of inadequacies he said existed in the present law. He presented with his report, however, one from Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, in charge of Anti-Trust prosecutions, which criticized court interpretations of the present statute.

Jackson in recent weeks has accused big business of contributing to the present business recession by monopolistic practices.

The Attorney General recommended also congressional action to expedite administration of justice in the federal courts, asserting delays were due to insufficient personnel, a tolerance of technicalities and a lack of efficient administrative methods.

He proposed authorization of 27 additional lower court judges, promulgation by the supreme court of uniform rules of practice for federal courts and provision for a permanent administrative officer.

Rev. Armstrong Accepts
Call to Southampton, Historic Church

The Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., announced at the close of the morning service in the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Sunday that he wished to resign as pastor of the church in order to accept a unanimous call to become pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Southampton, L. I. The Rev. Mr. Armstrong has served the local church as its pastor for six years, assuming the pastorate in February of 1932.

A meeting of the church and congregation had been called for Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock for the purpose of taking action on the resignation of the pastor, and to appoint commissioners to represent the church before the North River Presbytery to concur in the pastor's request for dissolution of the existing pastoral relationship.

The Rev. Mr. Armstrong succeeded the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis as pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church. Dr. Ellis resigned after serving the church for 30 years. The Rev. Mr. Armstrong came to the local church from the Edwards Congregational Church in Northampton, Mass., where he served as pastor for three years.

He assumed his duties as pastor of the church here on the first Sunday in February of 1932, and was installed as pastor of that year. The installation sermon was preached by the Rev. J. Valdenar Moldenhauer of the First Presbyterian Church of New York city; the charge to the minister was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Samuel W. Steele of the First Presbyterian Church of Amenia, and the charge to the people was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, pastor emeritus of the local church.

In 1933 the Rondout Presbyterian Church celebrated its 100th anniversary with impressive services.

The Rev. Mr. Armstrong during the six years that he has served the local church has made a host of friends, not only in his own congregation but the city at large. He was a forceful pulpit orator and a man of pleasing personality. Both he and Mrs. Armstrong are held in the highest esteem by all who know them.

After the church services Sunday morning the Rev. Mr. Armstrong added the following statement regarding his pastorate in Kingston: "To be with the Rondout Presbyterian Church has been a high privilege these six years. Never shall I forget the loyal support the church has given its pastor during these past years. Two characteristics of the congregation have stood out in bold relief in this parish. The first is the dependability and trustworthiness of the church leaders, who in their faithfulness quietly stand for the right as they see it. The second is the mutual confidence and courtesy of the glorious Christian fellowship, by which we respect the private judgment of Bible lovers, trusting the inner light to reveal truth to us in different ways."

The Presbyterian Church in Southampton to which Mr. Armstrong has been unanimously called is a strong church with a large membership. It is perhaps the oldest Presbyterian Church in the United States, having been founded in 1640. The town of Southampton is the oldest English settlement in New York state, the first settlers coming in June of 1640.

Neil Succumbs to Wounds Received
As Ace War Writer

Zaragoza, Spain, Jan. 3 (AP).—Edward J. Neil, Jr., Associated Press war correspondent with the Spanish insurgent armies, died yesterday of shrapnel wounds he suffered Friday while reporting the insurgent counter offensive on the Teruel front.

The 37-year-old, white-haired war correspondent failed to rally after blood transfusions, administered at the Red Cross hospital here, 160 miles north of Teruel. He was the third to die of wounds caused when a 75 millimeter shell struck an automobile in which four correspondents were seated at the village of Caude, five miles from Teruel.

Bradish Johnson, Harvard graduate and correspondent of the magazines "Sport" and "News" was killed outright and E. R. S. Shephards of Reuters (British news agency), also brought to Zaragoza, died Friday night. Harry Philby of the Times of London was injured slightly.

For a time Sunday Neil had seemed out of danger. He had been given one blood transfusion at Caude before being brought to the hospital here. Other transfusions followed, including one from a Catholic priest who was with the newspaper man when he died.

Specialists who had done their utmost to save him, fellow journalists, and insurgent press department officials were with Neil at his death. He had suffered 34 wounds in his legs and abdomen and fracture of one leg.

Francis Sends Sympathy
Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco, who had telephoned Zaragoza to inquire of Neil's condition, expressed deep sympathy when informed of his death.

The correspondent, who earlier in his career became known to millions of sports fans for his vivid accounts of sports events, had covered the Ethiopian War and, since May, Spanish insurgent battles.

With the other three correspondents he had gone to Caude for a first hand view of the insurgent offensive which resulted in the capture of Teruel in the greatest battle of the Spanish civil conflict.

Two days before he was injured, Neil had cabled what was to be his last story, telling of successful defense of the Teruel Seminary by a garrison of beleaguered insurgents. He had told how "foreign newspaper men circulating freely" on the insurgent front saw warplanes assault the government lines.

Neil is survived by his widow, the former Helen Nolan, and a five-year-old son, Edward J. Neil, III, living in New York; his parents, a brother, Dr. Richard J. Neil, and two sisters, Mrs. Mabel Reardon of Methuen, Mass., and Mrs. Dorothy Traynor of Oriental Park, Cuba.

His widow, a former Albany, N. Y., newspaperwoman who later was on the staff of The New York American, is connected now with the Columbia Broadcasting System.

President in Message to Congress Makes Principal Requests: Wage-Hour Revival; Farm Bill
Action: Less Taxes, Continued Relief

Washington, Jan. 3. (AP).—President Roosevelt told congress today that "misuse of the powers of capital" must be ended "or the capitalistic system will destroy itself through its own abuses."

At the same time he called upon both capital and labor to cooperate with the government in working out the welfare of the nation. Both groups, he said, should realize that "power and responsibility go hand in hand."

"Chiefly because of the need of national unity in ending mistakes of the past and meeting the necessities of today, we must carry on," Mr. Roosevelt said. "I do not propose to let the people down. I am sure the congress of the United States will not let the people down."

In the message which he delivered personally to a joint session of the house and senate the President disclosed that a balanced budget is out of the picture for the next fiscal year. He said, however, that his budget estimates would show a "further decrease in the deficit."

10-Inch Snow Puts County on Map as Winter Playland

Ten inches of snow over the week-end placed Ulster county winter sports centers in excellent shape for skiing and other sports but unfortunately the snow came too late to permit the New Yorkers from descending on the county by means of "snow trains." Had the snow come 12 hours sooner so that "snow trains" could be placed in operation Ulster county would have had its record winter sports crowd.

With the reputation of the Catskills as a winter sport center growing each year, there were many who came by private car over the week end to enjoy the slopes and trails and this crowd was augmented by a large number who came up on the regular trains late Friday and Saturday after it became known that there was good skiing in the Catskill mountain area.

At Woodstock, Phoenicia, Rosendale and other winter sports centers in the county reports of a good week-end business came.

Woodstock Festival
Charles E. Gradwell, who heads the Winter Sports Association in Woodstock, told a Freeman reporter that on Saturday morning it was impossible to "hog, borrow or steal" a pair of skis in Woodstock village. Every available pair had been sold, rented or borrowed and the trails and slopes in the area were very well patronized. With ten inches of new snow on the ground every trail was in the best of shape and although the lateness of the snow fall made it impossible to clear the ice pond for hockey, the winter visitors apparently enjoyed themselves immensely. It is expected that the ice pond will be cleared this week and unless another heavy snow fall comes at the end of the week the hockey games scheduled for the next week-end will go on.

New York Visitors
For the first time in history the Colony Hotel was opened up for the week-end and a party of 65 from the R. H. Macy store in New York city was entertained over the week-end. Mr. Newgold and a force of assistants came up from New York city 24 hours in advance.

Bud Festival Dates
Are Set Week Ahead
Ulster county's first apple blossom festival will be held on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 6, 7 and 8. Festival Chairman Roger Loughran said today. The dates, which had originally been fixed for a week later, were changed today when an examination of the records of the spray bureau of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau disclosed that the apple blossoms were at their best a week earlier than the original date.

With the dates as now fixed the apple blossoms will be at the peak of the blooming.

All of the committees recently appointed are now beginning to function to make this event the outstanding event in the history of the Hudson river valley. It is expected that fully 100,000 or more visitors will be attracted to Ulster county during the festival days.

Business practices which the President said "most people" believe should be ended by legislation: Tax avoidance through corporate and other methods; excessive capitalization; investment write-ups and security manipulations; price-fixing and collusive bidding in defense of a contract of the anti-trust laws by "phantom" prosecution under the present statute.

Placed in the same category were "check book" salesmanship which is a gross form of overproduction with excess inventories and consequent depressions in production and consequent loss of jobs as the surplus is converted to use of parent laws to enable larger corporations to maintain high prices, unfair competition to the detriment of the small producer; inundation of local or state governments to prevent enactment of laws for the protection of labor by threatening to move elsewhere, and the shifting of actual production from one locality to another in pursuit of the cheapest wage scale.

"The enumeration of these abuses," Mr. Roosevelt said, "does not mean that business as a whole is guilty of them. Again, it is deception that will not long deceive to tell the country that an attack on these abuses is an attack on business."

He asked business and laborers to recognize what he called

Plane Damaged in Landing Here, Ship Tips Over in Snow

Flying from Auburn, Pa., to Troy, William E. Walton and his son, Donald, 19, encountered fog above Kingston Sunday and attempted to locate the Kingston flying field. After circling the city several times they located the hangar and in attempting to set down their 14-hp. plane in a forced landing they were unable to determine where the field lay and settled in the wet soggy snow in an adjoining field. The plane tipped over in landing but both occupants escaped injury, although their plane was damaged to the extent of about $500. The propeller was bent and the tail broken as well as damage to the wings. The plane was later towed by a team of horses to the hangar where it will be repaired.

Mr. Walton said when they left Auburn Sunday morning there was no snow. At about the time the plane arrived over Kingston a heavy bank of clouds rolled in from the west and in the mountains there was some accompanying fog. The fog caused Mr. Walton to turn back and seek the local flying field rather than continue on to his destination.

After the accident Mr. Walton expressed his surprise that a town the size of Kingston did not have a more easily located field at least marked out for emergency landing.

Customs collections at the Port of Ogdensburg decreased from $12,687.63 in November, 1936 to $5,763.59 last month, customs officials have reported.

HELD IN STRANGE DOUBLE TRAGEDY ABOARD YACHT

Robert Horne (left) and George Spornack, (center) seamen on the yacht Aafje, and Mrs. Lillian Morgan, (right) a passenger on the craft, were detained for questioning by federal authorities at Los Angeles after the Aafje returned from a weird cruise with two of its party missing. A report of investigation announced it had learned that Jack Morgan, Lillian's husband, had slain Dwight Faulding, owner of the yacht, only to be beaten and tossed overboard in turn by Horne and Spornack. While Morgan was in charge of the yacht, his wife said he compelled her to hold the others at bay while he slept.

Mrs. Gertrude Turner (above) was one of the passengers aboard the yacht Aafje when its owner, Dwight Faulding and Jack Morgan, accused by the FBI of slaying Faulding, were lost off the Southern California coast short of fuel and rations, the yacht finally made port at Los Angeles.

Slayer of Yachtsman

John Hanson, chief F. B. I. agent in Los Angeles, Calif., said that this picture had been positively identified as a photo of Jack Morgan, who slew Dwight Faulding aboard the latter's yacht, Aafje, and terrorized the other persons aboard the craft before being thrown overboard by two youths.

Cardinal Calls on Million Catholics To Assist Labor

Chicago, Jan. 3 (AP).—George Cardinal Mundelein called on 1,000,000 Roman Catholics in the Chicago archdiocese today to take up the cudgels of the working man.

"The trouble with us in the past has been that we were too often drawn into an alliance with the wrong side," the Cardinal said last night in addressing 2,000 members of Home Name Societies.

"Selfish employers of labor have flattered the church by calling it the greatest conservative force, and then called upon it to act as a police force while they paid but a pittance of wage to those who worked for them."

"Of course, there is danger in communism."

But don't let others use it as a cloak to cover corrupt practices when they cry out against communism and they themselves practice social injustice, when they fight against a minimum wage and we find girls and women trying to live on 10 and 15 cents an hour. It is here that Catholic action should come in."

Cardinal Mundelein, an intimate friend of President Roosevelt, whom he entertained at a luncheon here last November, praised American democracy.

"We live in a democracy, thank God, where we decide our questions at the ballot box. We should avail ourselves of our right there," he said.

Cardinal Mundelein, whose criticism of Adolf Hitler's German government last May brought "vehement" along an international front, referred to conditions in Spain, Mexico and Germany as resulting either from the last of, or the overthrow of, organized Catholic action.

General Johnson's name for Nazism as "Naziness," which looks like something still worse.

Hunter Loses Right To Hunt for 10 Years

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 3 (AP).—John Peirle, 33, lost today the right to hunt for ten years because, the State Conservation Department said, he mistook a snapping towel for a deer's tail, killed a man and wounded another.

Revocation of Peirle's license for the maximum period under a law enacted by the 1937 legislature was announced by Conservation Commissioner Lithgow Osborne after hearings held here December 14 into "death and injury" accidents of the 1937 hunting season.

Other decisions announced included those involving: Jonathan D. Pierson, Poughkeepsie, license revoked for five years, as the result of the accidental shooting of a companion, George Stadelman, of Poughkeepsie, October 7, while hunting deer in Red Hook, Dutchess county. Stadelman was not seriously injured.

State Snow Brings Joy and 9 Deaths

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 3 (AP).—Winter's heaviest snows brought joy to sports enthusiasts and death to nine persons by accident or exposure over the holiday week-end upstate.

North Creek entertained more than 1,000 skiers while other resorts at Lake George, Ticonderoga, Saratoga Springs, Lake Placid and Old Forge reported an unusually heavy week-end visitation. For some, the heavy snow and piling snow made automobile driving hazardous and at least three automobile accident deaths were attributed to the weather. One other person died of exposure.

Parks Trial Postponed.
Morgantown, N. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—The trial of Ned A. Parks, young Washington soda dispenser, upon a charge of non-support of the son born to Martha Barkley six weeks before she married Basil (Pat) Ryan, of New York, was postponed today until January 12. Parks appeared in Burke county criminal court this morning to face the warrant sworn out by the 21-year-old Morgantown girl, and through his attorney, asked that the case be decided by a jury. Judge Oscar L. Horton set the case for Wednesday of next week. Neither Ryan, grandson of the late financier, Thomas Fortune Ryan, nor Mrs. Ryan, whom he married in Morgantown November 4, was in the courtroom.

Postoffice at Westkill Burned

The Westkill post office was destroyed by fire Sunday morning at 2 o'clock. The frame structure owned by John Newton, formerly of this city, was used by the post office for the past nine years. Origin of the fire was unknown.

When the firemen arrived at the scene, the building was ablaze, but valiant efforts upon the part of the firemen averted spreading of the fire to nearby places. Temporary quarters of the post office have been taken in an adjoining building.

The Boys' Club of Detroit is planning to build a $350,000 Boys' Club next spring and has obtained a 99 year lease from the board of education on an abandoned school site.

Vanderlyn T. Pine Assumes Office as County Treasurer

A handsome basket of chrysanthemums, roses and other flowers greeted Vanderlyn T. Pine, the new county treasurer, when he arrived at the county treasurer's office in the court house this morning, to take over his new duties. A card bore the inscription "Old Pals, New Pals."

Pratt Bolce, the efficient and faithful county treasurer for the past three years, was on hand to welcome his successor and make the necessary transfers. There were no formal ceremonies, Mr. Pine having already taken the constitutional oath before County Clerk James A. Simpson.

Although there have been some rumors of possible changes in the personnel of the office staff there was no evidence of it this morning, all those who have of late been connected with the office being on hand. They are Luther Dushner, deputy county treasurer; Dwight T. McIntee, tax sale clerk; Miss Belle Costello, stenographer; Mrs. Louis G. Gippert and Miss Eleanor Young, assistants.

Quake Report Awaited.
Mexico City, Jan. 3 (AP).—Mexico City awaited today reports from the state of Oaxaca, on the Pacific coast, to determine the extent of damage done by an earthquake felt in the capital and over southern Mexico yesterday. Report from Cuernavaca said Diego Rivera's framed murals of the Spanish conquest, painted on the walls of Conquistador Hernan Cortes Palace under auspices of the late Dwight W. Morrow, former United States ambassador, were damaged slightly. Several adobe huts collapsed at Cuernavaca, but no casualties were reported.

"WE KNOW TOBACCO BECAUSE WE GROW IT"

What quality of tobacco goes into Camel cigarettes?
This question, of interest to every smoker, is answered by the men who know tobacco from the ground up

IF YOU want to know the quality of the tobaccos that go into various cigarettes, here is one certain source of information—the men who grow tobacco. They sell leaf to the buyer who bids most for it. They have seen Camel bid and pay higher prices necessary to get choice piles of leaf. And they report other planters who grow fine tobacco have had the same experience. That's why, as one grower puts it: "Most planters prefer Camels." Smoke Camels steadily, and you'll realize what finer, more expensive tobaccos mean in smoking.

MEET ALEK SKIDMORE, of Winchester, Kentucky. "I'm a tobacco planter," he says as he displays some of his choice leaf. "Those Camel buyers pay for the best—and get it. The choice lots of my last crop brought me a top price, and Camel took all of the fine leaf that I had. I'm a steady Camel smoker myself. Camels are the favorite with men who grow tobacco." Mr. Skidmore and the other planters shown here bring direct evidence that Camels are indeed made from costlier tobaccos. Turn to Camels and see for yourself that those costlier tobaccos do make a real difference.

"I'VE BEEN IN this county for 30 years," says tobacco planter Ollie Hazelwood. "I'll tell you where the best tobacco goes. The choice lots of my crop are almost always bought by the Camel people. Every one on our place smokes Camels too—just like me."

"AN EXTRA GOOD CROP," says Ray Sponcil, who has grown fine tobacco for many years, "and the Camel buyer bought all of my good leaf. I've seen the real fine lots go to the Camel people year after year. I smoke Camels because I know the quality of the tobacco they use."

"CAMELS ARE MADE FROM more expensive tobaccos," says planter Beckham Wright. "I know the kind of leaf used for making various cigarettes. Only my best lots are bought for Camel."

"THE CAMEL PEOPLE bought the best of my last crop," says T. N. Williams, tobacco planter. "They paid the highest price. More expensive tobacco goes into Camel cigarettes all right."

PEOPLE DO APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS
THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

Camel spends millions more for COSTLIER TOBACCOS. They are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

"A house is built of rocks and stone. Of tiles and posts and piers. But a home is built of loving deeds. That stand a thousand years."

When you begin to think the world is against you, the chances are the world has found you out.

Father—Do you think our boy will leave foot-prints on the sands of time?

Wife—He'll leave them anywhere. Just look out in the hall.

I will! I will start now this morning with a higher, fairer creed; I will cease to stand complaining of my ruthless neighbor's greed. I will cease to sit grumbling while my duty's call is clear. I will waste no moment whining and my heart shall know no fear. I will look sometimes about me for the things that merit praise; I will search for hidden beauties that elude the grumbler's gaze; I will try to find contentment in the paths that I must tread, I will cease to have resentment when another moves ahead. I will not be swayed by envy when my rival's strength is shown; I will not deny his merit, but I'll strive to prove my own; I will try to see the beauty spread before me, rain or shine; I will cease to preach your duty and be more concerned with mine.

Friend—Your father looks very distinguished with his snow-white hair.

Son—Yes, he has me to thank for that.

Jim—I want to sweep the cobwebs from my brain.

Beas—I would suggest a vacuum cleaner.

When you hear some folks who blow and brag, you are reminded of the time when the flea, said to the elephant, "Boy, didn't we shake that bridge when we crossed it!"

Life is made up of routine. Note

How a pet or any well cared for domestic animal is upset if you break in on its daily routine.

Harold—Do you ever play the stock market?

Jasper—I tried it once, but the brokers seemed to be having all the fun.

Another way we should not judge America is by its magazine covers.

Friend—Listen, buddy, I think your mind is giving away!

Man—Is it, my mind gives away to my wife's mind on every disputed subject.

L'her—How far down do you wish to sit, lady?

Lady—All the way, of course.

As a matter of fact, few prominent citizens are actually misquoted. All the newspapers do is to correct their grammar.

Old Lady—I wouldn't cry like that, my little man!

Boy—Cry as you please, this is my way.

A good example of misfits is when a family of five boys and a dog move into an exclusive neighborhood of elderly property owners.

Grandmother—Would you like to go to the fair and ride on the Merry Go Round?

Modern Child—I don't really mind. If it will amuse you.

The more explaining a man does the less use the world has for him.

Husband—Your mother keeps threatening me.

Wife—Why, all she said was the train pulled out was that she would see you again soon.

Today Broadway: "Rosalie," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's latest big money extravaganza comes to the Broadway in a glittering array of expensive settings and high salaries. This million dollar production that centers around a singing cadet and a dancing princess is an elaborate, tuneful and brilliant spectacle set to some of the year's best music. Eight songs by Cole Porter enliven the score and the singing of Nelson Eddy plus the dancing of Eleanor Powell leaves little to be desired from an entertainment standpoint. Others in the cast are Frank Morgan, Edna May Oliver, Ray Bolger, Reginald Owen, Ilona Massey and Billy Gilbert. W. S. Van Dyke directed this screen musical and the script was written by William Anthony McGuire.

Kingston: "True Confession," Carole Lombard, ace actress of the new trend to rollicking, hard hitting comedy productions, is again at her best in this daffy and humorously dialogued play that concerns itself with a heroine who makes a pastime of lying her way in and out of trouble. The plot centers around a killing and a murder trial with Miss Lombard getting herself enmeshed in one trying circumstance after another. But the person who steals the show is John Barrymore for he is perfect in the role of an amateur criminologist. The cast includes features with two melodramas that almost shout with rapid action. The first is a story of circus life and the play develops into a deep and sinister mystery with Rita Hayworth and Charles Quigley featured in the thick of things. The other attraction is the tale of an egotistical prize fighter who slips because of his conceit. Orpheum: Same.

Warning to Japan: Paths of glory lead to sheriff's sales.

Tomorrow Broadway: Same.

Dickens' Visits to United States
Dickens came to the United States in 1842. The result of this journey is to be found in "American Notes," published in 1842. His second tour of the United States began late in November, 1867, and lasted until the middle of April, 1868. During that time he took in as a result of his readings a sum approximating $100,000. During his second tour he tried to correct his impressions of America and publicly acknowledged his change of feelings at a farewell dinner (which cost $40 a plate).

No First, No Second
The girls of a village in the Vosges mountains determine their mari-matal future by throwing pins into St. Sabine's fountain, according to an authority who reports that if the pin falls gravity by itself, the tower believes that she will marry soon. If, on the other hand, it sticks, the young lady in question knows she will not be married for at least a year. Various strategies are used to keep the pins aloft, but only about a tenth of them remain on the surface of the fountain.

ENSHRINE GLORY OF SALEM'S PORT DAYS

National Park Will Include Historic Structures.

Washington, D. C.—Salem, Massachusetts, plans a three-acre national park to enshrine to posterity the port's days of maritime glory, when its oriental sea trade rivaled that of Boston.

"The park will include the old Salem customs house, adjoining wharves, and Salem's oldest brick building—the Derby house," says the National Geographic society.

"Derby wharf will be reconstructed as it appeared about 1785 when Elias Derby, so-called 'King of Salem Merchants' sent his sailing ship, Grand Turk, to China. This was the first New England ship to reach the Far East. In its wake, whole fleets of ships sailed from Salem.

Dubbed "Pepper Port."
"Boston ships usually went
'round the Horn' of South America on their route to China, but many of Salem's ships sailed eastward, around Africa to the Orient, putting into numerous ports along the way, and exchanging cargoes in every port. When they returned to Salem wharves, they unloaded cargoes of Chinese tea, chinaware, and embroidered silks, Indian cotton goods, spices from the Malay archipelago and pepper from Sumatra.
From reshipping pepper to all the world, Salem became famous as the 'Pepper Port.'

"In the days of its flourishing sea trade, Salem youngsters frequently became cabin boys at fourteen, captains at twenty, and at forty returned to palatial homes filled with oriental luxuries and curios, and occasionally with Chinese brides.
Once-fashionable Derby street on the waterfront and tree-shaded Chestnut street are lined with such homes. Some of their roofs have railed 'widow's walks' where wives strained eyes for homecoming sails.
Inside, the mansions are almost museums, displaying exquisite Canton china, sandalwood chests, embroidered shawls, and painted fans.

"The Essex institute of Salem contains oil portraits of the town's merchant princes, paintings of their ships, and the Ward China library, one of the finest in the United States on China and the Chinese. The Peabody museum is a storehouse of mariners' treasures.

Here Hawthorne Worked.
"On Washington square stands a statue of Roger Conant who founded the town in 1626 as an agricultural and fishing community. A monument to Nathaniel Hawthorne overlooks Hawthorne boulevard. 'The Scarlet Letter' and other of his tales immortalizing Puritan New England were written in this city. Hawthorne worked as port surveyor in the old Salem customs house. One house is pointed out as his birthplace, another as the original 'House of Seven Gables.' Quaint, smallpaned wooden houses on the town's narrow backstreets he used as settings for his tales, peopling them with somberly-clad conscience-burdened Puritans.

"To visualize what a Puritan community of 1630 looked like, one has only to visit the reconstruced Pioneer village which covers three acres of Salem's Forest River park.
There, primitive cabins and stocks have been accurately reproduced.

"The Old Witch House, where a judge of the witch trials lived, recalls a blot on Salem's history—that strange scare that raged through New England in the Seventeenth century.

"After 1812, Salem's importance as a port waned, and her industry increased. Today, the city's 43,472 inhabitants do little shipping, but manufacture cotton goods, games, radio tubes, and shoes."

Champion Pappy Wants

All 30 of Brood at Home
Whitesburg, Ky.—The champion pappy of Kentucky has started a roundup of his 30 surviving sons and daughters. Two are dead. The father is John D. Sloan, a former coal miner of Kona.

Sloan knows where 13 of his children can be found. They are at home, but the other 17 are scattered.
Three sons and three daughters reside in the Far West, the others are somewhere in Kentucky. "I would like to get them all to come home once more," Sloan said. "I have set March 20, next year, for the homecoming. It will be the greatest day of the mountains."

There are three sets of twins and one set of triplets in the Sloan family. The youngest is three and one-half years old. The oldest is a son, 65½. The father is sixty-nine years old. He has been married three times and had nine children by his first wife, twelve by his sec-

Planthaber and Tellier in Duel At Nick's Parlor

Julius Tellier and Freddie Planthaber, two of Kingston's billiard stars, will start their 750-point match at Nick Kaslie's parlor, Tuesday night, promptly at 8 o'clock.

Six blocks of 125 points will be played, the second being scheduled for Thursday. Approved tournament style will be followed, the blocks being continual.

Although Tellier is said to be running off the ivories in old time style, recently having driven 65 into the pockets, Planthaber is the probable favorite owing to his recent good showing against Willie Mosconi and Joe Frocica.

Big Ten Title Drive to Start

Chicago, Jan. 3 (AP)—Promising a whirlwind of action with not a single "pushover" in the field, the big ten basketball championship race gets the starter's gun this week.

Only one conference game is on tonight's program — Wisconsin against Northwestern at Evanston, Ill.—but before the week is up every team will have tasted championship competition. Pre-season performances and the elimination of the most hotly contested campaigns of many years.

Four teams will be favored to make the strongest championship bids—Purdue, Minnesota, Michigan and Illinois. Purdue's bellerangers, with Jewell Young, Johnny Sines and Gene Anderson forming one of the highest scoring trios now in the sport, won eight straight pre-season contests, averaging 58.5 points a game. Young set an all-time conference scoring mark of 172 points last season.

Michigan, with the brilliant John (Jake) Townsend playing seasonally, won six straight "tuneup" games. Minnesota and Illinois, co-holders of the title, each lost one pre-season test, but have strong teams which pack plenty of punch. Illinois dropped a 51-33 decision to Temple, and Minnesota, decidedly off form, bowed to George Washington Saturday night 35-27.

Meaning of "Ranking" in Referring to Officials

In the United States congress "ranking" is applied to the minority member of a committee who would, by the operation of the seniority rule, become chairman if his party had the majority. As a rule the chairmanship of a committee is given to the majority member who has had the longest continuous service on the committee.

The term "ranking" was borrowed from American military usage. "To rank," as used in army and navy circles, means to outrank or to take precedence of in respect to rank. The President of the United States, for instance, as commander-in-chief, ranks every officer in all branches of the service. The ranking officer of an outfit is the senior officer, who outranks all others because he is a higher grade or holds a commission of earlier date.

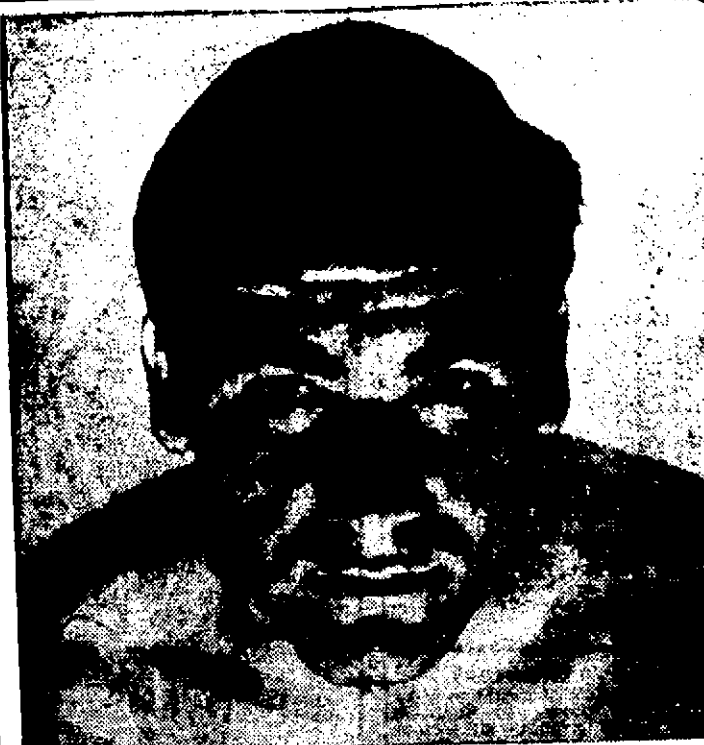

Following this analogy, says a writer in the Indianapolis News, the chairman of a committee should be the ranking member, since he outranks all others; but as generally used the term is applied only to the senior member of the minority party represented on the committee. Occasionally the term is loosely applied to the member of each party who has served longest on the committee next to the chairman, making a chairman and two ranking members on every committee on which two parties are represented.

The Cross-Word Puzzle

Puzzles similar to the cross-word puzzles were known to the ancients. What is believed by some authorities to be the oldest cross-word puzzle was made by a Cretan about 2,000 years ago, a copy of which lies in the archaeological museum at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md. The puzzle is called the Phaestus disk, and was found on the island of Crete by an expedition many years ago. The first genuine cross-word puzzle of the modern type was composed by Arlun Finn and appeared in a supplement of the Sunday New York World on December 21, 1913.

How to give spaciousness to small spaces is a feat of magic that is far less complicated than pulling things out of hats. It's mirror magic! And one of the spots where this sleight-of-hand is most needed is in the living room. Spaciousness and charm can be added to small or large dining rooms by using mirrors on the walls where they can reflect each other.

George Pfann won all-America football honors at Cornell in 1923. Teddy Burwell, North Carolina tennis star, went to Oxford a few years ago.

New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—That Hank Luttrell must do it with mirrors . . . no one could be as good as the Stanford sharpshooter . . . According to all books, his 50 points against Duquesne Saturday is an all-time record. . . . As an expert said, "He may not be the greatest basketball player—but name me a greater."

Don Padgett, National League's hop-hitting outfielder for '37, is being groomed to handle the catching for the Cardinals next season. . . .

At Ford Frick's New Year party: Lotta talk that the Dodgers will be sold (all denials to the contrary) . . . And that Van Mungo definitely will be with another club this summer . . . Probably with Cubs, because Giants quit bidding when they heard those telephone numbers the Brooklynites will settle for less than Frank Demaree in Cub deal . . . John Heydler, health restored, looking better than he did when he resigned as National League proxy five years back. . . .

No wonder those unbeaten Temple basketballers have the answers for the tough western outfits . . . Of the five owl from men who whipped Illinois and stopped Stanford, four are six-foot-four or higher . . . And the fifth a mere six-one . . . General opinion is the Cubs' collection of master-minds (Grimm, Lazari, Harpott) will bust wide open by mid-season . . . And will the fur fly then? . . . Mike Jacoby'll have an announcement for you fight fans from his Miami winter quarters any day now. . . . Philadelphia and Chicago are rolling up their sleeves to give Little Ole N'Yawk a fight for the Louis-Schmeling million-dollar cinch.

Three Champions Avenge Defeats

New Orleans, Jan. 3 (AP)—Three great American track stars, Glenn Cunningham, Forrest Towns and Don Lash, shared the thrills of the fourth annual sugar bowl festival of sports with the 6,000 who watched them in action.

All three, participating Sunday in their specialties in which they hold the world records, avenged defeats.

Cunningham, the former "Kansas bullet," outdistanced Archie San Romani to win the mile; Georgia's Spec Towns, Olympic 120-yard high hurdles champion, defeated Allen Tomlinch of Wayne University, the only man who ever beat him in intercollegiate competition, and Lash reversed the result of last year's two-mile run by conquering Wayne Rideout of Texas Teachers.

City Basketball Starts 2nd Half Slate Tuesday

The City Basketball League will take up its schedule again after the holiday layoff, starting the second round of the Closed Division, Tuesday night at the municipal auditorium. Three games are scheduled as follows:

J. Y. A. vs. Knights of Columbus.

Forsts vs. Central Hudson.

Hercules vs. Fullers.

Starting time of the first game is 7:30 o'clock.

Plenty of flash should be shown in the second round, says Director Sidney Lutzin of the league, because of the revised rosters and change in the rules. All of the clubs have been strengthened, and instead of intercollegiate rules, amateur laws have been adopted by the league.

Riggs and Grant Seeded 1st, 2nd

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 3 (AP)—Bobby Riggs, young Chicago net star who climbed to No. 2 spot among American players in three years, came here in quest of new honors today in the Miami Billmore tennis tournament.

Officials ranked him first in the field of 58 players, with the mighty atom of the courts, Bryan (Bitty) Grant of Atlanta, seeded No. 2. The pair offered a possibility of fireworks in the finals.

Riggs drew a first round bye and Grant was pitted against Charles Carroll of Miami, an unseeded contestant.

White Eagles Will Play on Tuesday

The White Eagles will play their regular weekly basketball game in their hall on Delaware avenue Tuesday night, meeting the Crusaders of Poughkeepsie at 8:30 o'clock.

There will be a preliminary at 7:30 between two girl teams. After the basketball program, there will be dancing.

The church Basketball League resumes its schedule tonight on the Y. M. C. A. court with six teams in action. The schedule is as follows:

7:30—St. Mary's vs. First Dutch.

8:30—Redeemer vs. Clinton Avenue Aces.

9:15—Port Ewen vs. Comforter.

The Irish are favorites to move one step nearer the first half championship in the opening contest with the First Dutch five who have yet to register a victory. With only one more week of play remaining after tonight's game St. Mary's cagers have an edge on first half honors.

In the second contest the Clinton Avenue Aces, who dropped a 13-12 decision to the Irish in their last battle, meet the Redeemers. The Aces need this victory to remain in the race for the first half championship. The Redeemers, after losing their first four games, have made a fine comeback and hope to finish the first half with victories over the Aces and the Irish when they meet next week.

The Comforter quintet, which is tied for second place, must defeat the Port Ewen five in the final contest to remain in the race. The Comforters and Clinton Avenue

The West's return to power in the Rose Bowl, Whizzer White's sensational display of all around skill in the Cotton Bowl, Rice's presentation of a crop of sensational sophomores and banner crowds at Pasadena and New Orleans were the outstanding features of 1932's bowl engagements.

California's methodical mowing down of Alabama undoubtedly enhanced the waning prestige of coast football in inter-sectional combat. Not since 1933, when Southern California slaughtered Pittsburgh, had a western team won by two touchdowns.

Granted the Crimson Tide was not up to the teams of the John Mack Brown or Dixie Howell eras, the Golden Bears turned in a workmanlike job at Pasadena. As in the regular season the California line out-charged and out-maneuvered its opponents and its backs did a notable job of block-hammering with Vic Bottari running unhampered to two scores and a 13-0 victory.

Whizzer White, the second Rocky Mountain Conference player to make the All America, emerged from Colorado's defeat by Rice in Dallas' Cotton Bowl with new glory. The elusive Whizzer led the drive for the first touchdown and passed for the score, and then ran 53 yards for another score.

It wasn't enough. The sophomores, mainly Ernie Lain and Ollie Corbitt, two backs, set the Rice offensive moving and the Owls pounded out four touchdowns and the staggering total of 422 yards gained, overland and in the air. When it ended Rice was on top, 28 to 14.

New Orleans, where Santa Clara battered Louisiana State 6 to 0, and Pasadena drew the biggest crowds. Over 40,000 saw Santa Clara win in the Sugar Bowl and a record gathering of 90,000 was on hand at Pasadena.

Other bowl attractions did fairly well. About 27,000 saw the Rice-Colorado Cotton Bowl (II). The Orange Bowl game, won by Auburn 6 to 0 over Michigan State, drew 19,000 at Miami, Fla. About 12,500 saw West Virginia, lone eastern representative in the post-season games, shade Texas Tech, 7 to 6, at El Paso.

The east-west game, a New Year's Day fixture, was a financial if not a technical success. The two all-star teams played a scoreless tie before 59,000 at San Francisco.

EAST-WEST BATTLE TO SCORELESS TIE

Before 59,000 fans, picked teams of the East and West fought to a scoreless tie in San Francisco in the Shrine's annual charity game. Elmore Hackney, star back from Duke University, is shown being pulled down after a short gain by Al Hoptowit, Washington State guard. No. 61 for the west is Carl Littlefield, Washington State fullback. No. 58 for the west is Louis Tsoutsouvas, Stanford center.

ALABAMA GAINS BUT TEAM LOSES

Herchel Mosley (50), Alabama back, is shown cutting through a wide gap in the California line for a gain in the annual Rose Bowl contest at Pasadena, Calif., before 90,000 persons. Dave DeVarona, (65), Bear tackle, missed his try to stop Mosley. On the ground, wearing mask, is Capt. Leroy Mosley, Alabama guard.

After dropping their New Year's game to the Brooklyn Vissitations at the municipal auditorium, 30-21, Frank Morgenweck's Colonials administered a thrashing to Kate Smith's Celtics, Sunday at the New York Hippodrome, 46-36.

In their 10 point victory over the Shamrocks, the Club that took them over Christmas at the auditorium, the Colonials showed the best form of the season on the road. Phil Rabin and Jimmy Brown starting in the offensive.

Rabin boosted his scoring record in the American League with 18 points, and Brown, who has been sitting out most of the contests, got off the bench to toss in six fields for the Morgenweckers. Rallying in the home game.

New Year's, Rabin featured the Colonial attack by piling up 10 points in the last five minutes of play.

In the Hipp contest, with Rabin and Brown going to work early, the Colonials took a 19-0 lead in the first period and stayed in the van for the entire contest. Chick Reiser, star of the Christmas duel for the Celtics was not as impressive on his own floor. He made only eight points, while Pete Herensen cut loose to dump in enough shots for 18 markers.

In the New Year's battle, Joe Polacher, Vissie rookie, ran wild at the auditorium to collect 18 points. His impressive American League debut was a big help to the Brooklynites, who had a big harvest in the third period rolling up a 10-point lead.

With his club behind, 10-29, Phil Rabin stirred the fans with his sensational shooting spree, rolling up seven points in succession to pull the Colonials out of the depths. He put the final touches on his exhibition with three more markers in the last minute, boosting the Kingston score from 27 to 39 as the contest ended with the Vissies in front with 34 points.

Whitman's Tribute to Bible

Walt Whitman's tribute to the Bible is as follows: How many ages and generations have brooded and wept and agonized over this book! What untellable joys and ecstasies, what support to martyrs at the stake, from it! To what myriads has it been the shoe and rock of safety—the refuge from driving tempest and wreck! Translated in all languages, how it has united this diverse world! Of its thousands there is not a verse, not a word, but is thick-studded with human emotion.

The Japs may be sorry for what they did, but we haven't heard of any of 'em committing harakiri yet.

FORTUNES, FORTUNES EVERYWHERE
FUN AND EASY FOR YOU TO READ

No lonely gaps in your social life if fortune-telling is in your bag of tricks. Anywhere and everywhere are chances to show your skill.

You and your date spend an evening by the fire? Play the mysterious, fascinating soothsayer. A fanlike ember flying your way whispers of a flirtation. A heart-shaped spark-bursting near your beau foretells a romance.

A lively party—and suddenly it says? Whip out a deck of cards and say "Who'd like his fortune told?" Everybody will love it. And when you interpret the cards this old French way you have the crowd all ears.

Suppose the ace of hearts turns up in Tim's fortune. The ace is the travel card—and the hearts are the romance suit. Certainly a honeymoon is near for Tim. Then you may turn up the 2 of diamonds. The diamond is the money suit and the 2 spot means a gift.

The 3-spot hints a letter. As it's a spade, the trouble suit, there's a headache coming for Tim. Maybe a bill? But if he draws the 9 of hearts, he needn't worry. His pet wish comes true.

Or perhaps you have friends for tea. Fun and easy to read the leaves. Ask Jane to drink her cup dry, turn it around three times and turn the cup upside down. If the leaves are near the rim, the faces will be kind to her. Leaves at the bottom are not so cheery. If there is a triangle of leaves with apex pointing up—good luck. Little dots, money.

From our 40-page booklet, LET ME TELL YOUR FORTUNE. It's easy to learn how to read cards, tea-leaves, dreams. Fortune games, too.

Send 15c for your booklet, LET ME TELL YOUR FORTUNE, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 14th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Says Capital Most End Abuses

A "new moral climate" in the nation and themselves to cure such inequalities as they can without legislation while joining the government in enacting legislation to end others.
"The nation," he continued, "has no obligation to make America safe for incompetent business men or for business men who fail to note the trend of the times and continue the use of machinery of economics and practices of finance as outworn as the cotton spindle of 1870."
The anti-trust laws, Mr. Roosevelt said, "require reconstruction," but he reserved detailed recommendations for a later message.
Tax Revision
He again urged tax revision where levies were working a hardship on small business, but said federal income should be kept at its present level, abuses "must not be restored" and "speculative income should not be favored over earned income."

Assessing the task facing the three branches of government "faces us—as squarely, as insistently, as in March, 1933," the president declared as to the business situation and recent attacks on monopolies by administration lieutenants.
"The overwhelming majority of business men and bankers intend to be good citizens. Only a small minority have displayed poor citizenship by engaging in practices which are dishonest, or definitely harmful to society."
"This statement is straightforward and true. No person in any responsible place in the government of the United States today has ever taken any position contrary to it."

"But, unfortunately for the country, when attention is called to, or attack is made on specific misuses of capital, there has been a deliberate purpose on the part of the condemned minority to distort the criticism into an attack on all capital. That is wilful deception, but it does not long deceive."
The President hinted possible new proposals for revision of banking practices when he asserted influences were at work to "control banking and finance" despite federal efforts to "take such control out of the hands of a small group."
"We have but to talk with hundreds of small bankers throughout the United States," he said, "to realize that irrespective of local conditions, they are compelled in practice to accept the policies laid down by a small number of the larger banks in the nation. The work undertaken by Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson is not finished yet."

Foreign Affairs.
Devoting the first part of his message to foreign affairs, the President said the United States "has been kept at peace despite provocations which in other days, because of their seriousness, could well have engendered war."
While this country had striven for reduction of armaments and conciliation of international differences, he said, in a world of high tension and disorder, it and other peaceful nations must "be strong enough to assure the observance of these fundamentals of peaceful solution of conflicts which are the only ultimate basis for orderly existence."

"Resolute in our determination to respect the rights of others, and to command respect for the rights of ourselves," he added, "we must keep ourselves adequately strong in self-defense."
He said disregard for treaty obligations seems to have followed the "surface trend" away from democratic forms of government and added:
"Our people believe that over the years democracies of the world will survive, and democracy will be restored or established in those nations which today know it not. In that faith lies the future peace of mankind."

Anxious as Any.
The President said he was as anxious as any industrialist, banker, investor or economist to balance the budget, but this depended on certain conditions:
That the government continue to help the needy jobless.
That Congress and the executive join in eliminating or curtailing federal agencies where it would not harm necessary functioning of government.
That the nation's purchasing power be raised to the point where the taxes would be sufficient to meet necessary government expenditures.

Mr. Roosevelt reiterated that annual expenditures could not be cut much below $7,000,000,000 "without destroying the essential functions or letting people starve." He said that by holding "normal" expenditures to about the present level and with an increase in the nation's income producing greater tax revenue it would be possible not only to balance future budgets but also to reduce the debt.
While "definite strides" in collective bargaining had been made and the right of labor to organize had been recognized nationally, he said:
"Nevertheless in the evolution of the process difficult situations have arisen in localities and among groups."

Unfortunate Divisions.
"Unfortunate divisions relating to jurisdiction among the workers themselves have retarded production within given industries and have, therefore, affected related industries."
"The construction of homes and other buildings has been hindered in some localities not only by unusually high prices for materials but also by certain hourly wage scales."
He said the immediate need for the future was an increase in wages of the lowest paid groups in all industry and an annual wage for mechanics now being paid by the hour but working only a few months a year.
"In the case of labor as in the

FLORAL MERRY-GO-ROUND WINS TOP AWARD

The city of Burbank, Calif., won the sweepstakes award in the annual Tournament of Roses parade at Pasadena, Calif., with this floral merry-go-round float depicting the theme "Playland Fantasy." Highlights of Roosevelt Message to Congress

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP).—Highlights of President Roosevelt's message to Congress:
I do not propose to let the people down. I am sure the Congress of the United States will not let the people down.

We have improved some matters by way of remedial legislation. But where in some particular cases legislation has failed we cannot be sure whether it falls because some of its details are unwise or because it is being sabotaged. At any rate, we hold our objectives and our principles to be sound. We will never go back on them.

Government can be expected to cooperate in every way with the business of the nation provided the component parts of business abandon practices which do not belong to this day and age, and adopt price and production policies appropriate to the times.

If attention is called to, or attacked made on certain wrongful business practices, there are those who are eager to call it "an attack on all business." That is wilful deception that will not long deceive.

In regard to taxes... our conclusion must be that while proven hardships should be corrected, they should not be corrected in such a way as to restore abuses already terminated or to shift a greater burden to the less fortunate.

The proposed budget for 1939 (the fiscal year beginning next July 1), which I shall shortly send to the Congress, will exhibit a further decrease in the deficit, though not an actual balance between income and outgo.

I am as anxious as any banker, or industrialist, or business man, or investor, or economist that the budget of the United States government be brought into balance as quickly as possible.

escu offering aid in combating the new government of Premier Octavian Goga and any Fascist tendency created a sensation in Bucharest today. Titulescu, who recently refused to accept membership in the peasant party, also asked in the message to Julius Maniu, party president, that he be considered a member now.

8 Soviet Officials Die
Moscow, Jan. 3 (AP).—Execution of eight former officials of the Armenian Soviet Socialist republic on conviction of disrupting farming as part of a separatist plot was disclosed today. They had been accused of conspiring to separate Armenia from the Soviet Union and establish a protectorate under a "capitalist protector."

Returns to Fight.
Bucharest, Jan. 3 (AP).—A message from former Nicholas Titulescu offering aid in combating the new government of Premier Octavian Goga and any Fascist tendency created a sensation in Bucharest today.

Heart Slit, Walks Mile
Surgeons at the West Hudson Hospital in Kearny, N. J., cut open "Smiling Joe" Thomas' heart and sewed it up in a delicate operation, but that didn't prevent the 220-pound, 6 foot-2 inch negro from leaving the hospital wearing pajamas via the drain pipe route. Police were soon hunting his body but were quite surprised to see him walk back into the hospital apparently the worse for wear. He explained that he had gone to the home of a friend to get some clothes. Police Officer Alfred La Tendre is shown interviewing Thomas.

Christmas at Home for the Aged

The Home for the Aged, this Christmas season, has been attractively decorated, casting a festive light within and without. Numerous calls have been made, carols were sung by different churches. Christmas messages were interchanged and many gifts received. On Christmas eve, Santa Claus in his wanderings up and down was not too busy to stop where all the attractive lights were burning, and spend a jovial hour, making merry and distributing much cheer. He brought his orchestra and Christmas music filled the air.

The message of "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men" prevailed, hearts were made happy, and the Christmas spirit was felt.

The guests of the household join one and all, to extend thanks to those making such pleasure possible.

County farm bureaus have "gone over the top" with membership increases in 39 out of 41 counties.
